

ICO consultation on the draft right of access guidance

The right of access (known as subject access) is a fundamental right of the General Data Protection Regulation (GDPR). It allows individuals to find out what personal data is held about them and to obtain a copy of that data. Following on from our initial GDPR guidance on this right (published in April 2018), the ICO has now drafted more detailed guidance which explains in greater detail the rights that individuals have to access their personal data and the obligations on controllers. The draft guidance also explores the special rules involving certain categories of personal data, how to deal with requests involving the personal data of others, and the exemptions that are most likely to apply in practice when handling a request.

We are running a consultation on the draft guidance to gather the views of stakeholders and the public. These views will inform the published version of the guidance by helping us to understand the areas where organisations are seeking further clarity, in particular taking into account their experiences in dealing with subject access requests since May 2018.

If you would like further information about the consultation, please email SARguidance@ico.org.uk.

Please send us your response by 17:00 on Wednesday 12 February 2020.

Privacy statement

For this consultation, we will publish all responses received from organisations but we will remove any personal data before publication. We will not publish responses received from respondents who have indicated that they are an individual acting in a private capacity (e.g. a member of the public). For more information about what we do with personal data see our privacy notice.

Please note, your responses to this survey will be used to help us with our work on the right of access only. The information will not be used to consider any regulatory action, and you may respond anonymously should you wish.

Please note that we are using the platform Snap Surveys to gather this information. Any data collected by Snap Surveys for ICO is stored on UK servers. You can read their Privacy Policy.

Q1 Does the draft guidance cover the relevant issues about the right of access?

- ☒ Yes
- ☐ No
- ☐ Unsure/don't know

If no or unsure/don't know, what other issues would you like to be covered in it?

Q2 Does the draft guidance contain the right level of detail?

- ☐ Yes
- ☐ No
- ☒ Unsure/don't know

If no or unsure/don't know, in what areas should there be more detail within the draft guidance?

I understand that some exemptions only apply insofar as they would prejudice the objective of the purpose of the processing or the function that the processing supports. However, this guidance goes further than that and states that unless the disclosure is prohibited by law the Data Controller has the discretion to rely on the exemption or not.

It's not clear whether this relates to those exemptions that can be used where disclosure would prejudice the purpose of the processing/function of the data controller or whether there are specific exemptions that are in effect discretionary. More clarity on this would be useful.

Q3 Does the draft guidance contain enough examples?

- ☒ Yes
- ☐ No

☐ Unsure/don't know

If no or unsure/don't know, please provide any examples that you think should be included in the draft guidance.

Q6 Why have you given this score?

The GDPR guidance is already very comprehensive and so this code holds very little new information

Q7 To what extent do you agree that the draft guidance is clear and easy to understand?

Strongly

Disagree

Neither agree nor

Q8 Please provide any further comments or suggestions you may have about the draft

It is relatively easy to understand although more contractions, in the grammatical sense would make it more user friendly.

It would be useful to highlight that Subject Access Requests made to schools during the holidays are still required to be completed within 1 month.

I would be useful to have clarity around the exemptions relating to embryology as these are very complex and also around statements of special educational needs as I cannot foresee any circumstances in which this should not be disclosed to the data subject.

guidance.
