Request

"Please can you also provide me with the Management Boards generic contact email as I wish yo bring this matter to their collective attention."

We received your request on 17 January 2024.

We have handled your request under the Freedom of Information Act 2000 (the FOIA).

Our response

I can confirm that we hold information in scope of your request.

We have withheld the internal email address under section 31(1)(g) of the FOIA.

We can do this when the disclosure of information "would, or would be likely to, prejudice...the exercise by any public authority of its functions for any of the purposes specified in subsection (2)."

In this case the relevant purposes contained in subsection 31(2) are 31(2)(a) and 31(2)(c):

*" a. the purpose of ascertaining whether any person has failed to comply with the law, and
c. the purpose of ascertaining whether circumstances which would justify regulatory action in pursuance of any enactment exist or may arise."*

Misuse of internal email addresses that exist to support ICO staff would likely prejudice our ability to perform our regulatory functions. Disclosure would leave us vulnerable to phishing or other cyber-attacks, spam, or an increased volume of irrelevant correspondence which it would take us time to process.

We have an established complaints policy that sets out the appropriate procedure to be followed by delegated members of staff. It is not the role of the management board to respond to individual complaints.

The exemption at section 31(1)(g) is not absolute. When considering whether to apply it in response to a request for information, there is a 'public interest test'. We have to consider whether the public interest favours withholding or disclosing the information.

In this case the public interest factor in favour of disclosing the information is:

- Increased transparency in the way in which the ICO conducts its operations.

The public interest factors in maintaining the exemption are as follows:

- Internal email addresses being used inappropriately will reduce the effectiveness and efficiency of our regulatory functions.
- The public interest in transparency is met by the public provision of other more appropriate means of contacting us and by the established complaints procedure.

Having considered these factors we have taken the decision that the public interest in withholding the information outweighs the public interest in disclosing it.

Next steps

You can ask us to review our response. Please let us know in writing if you want us to carry out a review. Please do so within 40 working days.

You can read a copy of our full review procedure on our website.

If we perform a review but you are still dissatisfied, you can complain to the ICO as regulator of the FOIA. This complaint will be handled just like a complaint made to the ICO about any other public authority.

You can raise a complaint through our website.
