

24 July 2024

Case reference: IC-316561-G2Q6

We are now in a position to respond to your information request of 26 June.

Request

You asked us for the following:

"The Investigatory Powers (Amendment) Act 2024, which became law on 25 April 2024, appears to impose a new duty on Telecommunications Operators (TOs) to notify certain personal data breaches (as defined under PECR) to the Investigatory Powers Commissioner (IPC) who must also then inform the Information Commissioner about details of those breaches, and may also inform an individual if they have been affected by a personal data breach if this is in the public interest.

Can you please let me know if the ICO and/or the IPC has provided guidance on this requirement and templates to submit such notifications under the new Act?"

We have handled your request for recorded information under the Freedom of Information Act 2000 (FOIA).

Our response

We have consulted with relevant teams within the ICO and can confirm that we do not hold information within scope of your request.

You will need to contact the Investigatory Powers Commissioner's Office for information they may hold in relation to your request. Their contact details can be found online at www.ipco.org.uk/contact-us/ and are copied below.
